

7.1 PROCEDURAL FAIRNESS STATEMENT

---

Procedural fairness must be observed in all aspects of grievance handling process. In practice procedural fairness involves:

- Ensuring that there is proper investigation of the facts;
- Informing relevant parties of any allegations made against them, as appropriate;
- Ensuring that all parties are informed of the procedures under which the grievance is being handled and are given a copy of the relevant policy and guidelines;
- Ensuring that all parties are heard and those who have had complaints made against them are given an opportunity to respond;
- Ensuring that all relevant submissions and any mitigating factors are given due and proper consideration before any conclusions are reached or any action is taken;
- Advising all parties that if the grievance is of such a serious nature that disciplinary action may result, then the facts revealed during an investigation into the grievance may be used in any subsequent disciplinary proceedings;
- Impartiality on the part of the investigator and/or decision, which means the investigator/decision maker, must exclude themselves if there is any bias or conflict of interest.

These procedures usually require that the person raising a grievance must be willing to be identified, unless the facts of the matter are not in dispute, or the matter involves allegations of corruption, mal-administration or child abuse. If in doubt about the requirements of procedural fairness, advice should be sought from the Nominated Supervisor or Committee President.

On any occasion when the grievance is to be discussed, staff (both grievant and/or respondent) may choose to be accompanied by a colleague from the School.

If the allegations have been made in writing, a copy will be given to the parties against whom the allegations have been made (unless the allegations relate to corruption, maladministration and serious waste or child abuse where legislation provides otherwise).
